We want to make sure that everybody we register knows they have a choice, that they can register at home or register here.

-BRUCE PORTER

Isla Vista in the Heart of Third District Vote

Bruce Porter and Joan Hartmann are pitted against each other for the position of Third District County Supervisor

Supriya Velmonti
County News Editor

Every four years, Isla Vista witnesses an influx of attention. The state of its sidewalks becomes fodder for change; non-residents discuss the latest on its self-governance situation and politicians are frequently spotted in the two-block chase of its narrow streets.

Although it occupies a little over a square mile, the unincorporated area is brimming with over 20,000 UC Santa Barbara students, retirement communities and clusters of longtime residents.

This population comprises over one-third of all votes in the district, and the inordinate demographic of young people tend to favor Democrats.

Because the free-member Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors has historical sway between liberals and conservatives, Isla Vista has become the swing vote for the entire county.

The resulting melding of political activity is most apparent in voter registration efforts. Student organizers mounted residence hall and campus buttocks in advance of the primary election in June, and Democrats are the most visible group.

However, the same spirit that has fought hard to make sure that Isla Vista is not a throwaway town in county politics instead of being buried into another district by close geographic margins has spawned activist John Porterfield of the Downtown Isla Vista Neighborhood Association. He has decided to run for the Third District Democratic Party.

The last time Democrats won Isla Vista by a landslide, and this year’s primary seems to predict similar results. In the June 7 primary, Democrat Joan Hartmann began to look of 42.8 percent over opponent Bruce Porter, who gained 35.5 percent.

Bruce Porter, who is supported by the Republican Party, has registered voters at several campus spots and attended Parada Carnaval last weekend to garner support, but his registration tactics have drawn some scrutiny.

Porter told Terry Baxter as his Isla Vista field director in July, one month after the primary election. Baxter was a former campaign assistant for Steve Pappas, who the Nixon endorsed during his race for Third District Supervisor in 2008.

After losing to Daveen Barron, Baxter and Pappas called to canvass over 9,000 votes from I.V. based on irregularities they found in voter records. The case was ultimately dismissed due to lack of evidence, and Pappas was made to pay all court fees.

Baxter’s background does not sit well with those observing Porter’s campaign in I.V., and several political operatives are equally unimpressed by his current approach to registration.

“We want to make sure that everybody we register knows they have a choice, that they can register at home or register here,” he told the News, responding to allegations.

Porterfield’s campaign has attempted to single the student vote out by reducing concentration in the Third District.

Porterfield is supported by the registration drive to appeal Baxter to his staff, and said, “Terry Baxter is not going anywhere telling people not to register to vote.”

Retirement Celebration for UCSB’s Aquatic Legend This Saturday

There is no limitation that can be placed upon the perennial influence coaches can have on their athletes. They serve as the indispensable influence of a core of individuals, providing them with the necessary guidance, knowledge and challenges that help cultivate principles of life that exceed the competition of sports.

A total of 427 individuals were fortunate enough to encounter the leadership and commitment of former UCSB swim Head Coach Gregg Wilson over the course of his 40-year coaching career.

As of July 1, 2016, Wilson officially retired.

“Over the past 40 years of coaching appearances at the 2016 U.S. Olympic Trials, his final meet as the Montclair State Coach, UCSB was the longest winning streak Cal Poly. Despite no longer being at the helm of NCAA Division I swimming, he remains a vital asset to its substance as a volunteer assistant, helping to sell and aid his former Head Coach Matt Bisollo’s introduction to UCSB with him joining the men’s swimming program in the 1979-80 season.

In the 1983 season, however, Wilson simply needed a break from his coaching duties of 40-hour work weeks and returned to his alma mater Cal and became the program’s aquatic director.

Despite returning to his former university, there was a void within Wilson, and his love for the game eventually drove him back to UCSB. However, his return to the pool deck would eventually change with an increase in duties.

“When I realized I was missing the stimulation of the student-athlete, the challenges that presented themselves here [at UCSB],” Wilson said.

“They decided during my absence to merge the men’s and women’s teams. They invited both (the) aquatic director [and] head coach, and I later returned the programs together. It exceeded my expectations, I had to learn a lot. I went about 60-70 hours a week and everything really took off. It was an experiment for the Department. It worked as well as they merged the men’s and women’s track programs and that was right at the beginning of a lot of programs across the country merging men and women together.”

Wilson was UCSB’s head swim coach for the past 40 years. He saw two of his athletes win Olympic gold medals.

What I realized was I missed the stimulation of the student-athlete, the challenges that presented themselves here [at UCSB].

-GREGG WILSON

There are no limits on the “love-driven policies” and the issue of hate in the election; Porterfield performed poetry and spoke on black history.

Kim spoke mainly on “love-driven policies” and the issue of hate in the election; Porterfield performed poetry and spoke on black history.

Jaiith Hu
Reporter

Guests Speak on Love in Politics

Guests Sunni Patterson and David Kim spoke in two separate events

Keep up the good work, by the look of it. Thanks for the caption, I really enjoyed the article.

For more information, please see the following link:

http://www.dailynews.com
3. My parents auditioned several mohels, none of them made the cut.

4. Andrew Jewett’s talk traces fears about science’s cultural impact and ideological and political leaders and ordinary citizens in postwar America. Jewett is the author of Science, Democracy, and the American University: From the Civil War to the Cold War (2012).

Sponsored by the Center for the Study of Work, Labor & Democracy.

Andrew Jewett (History, Harvard University)

TALK: THE SPECTRUM OF SOCIAL ENGINEERING: SCIENTIFIC AND ITS CRITICS IN THE LONG 1950s

Andrew Jewett’s talk traces fears about science’s cultural impact and ideological and political leaders and ordinary citizens in postwar America. Jewett is the author of Science, Democracy, and the American University: From the Civil War to the Cold War (2012).

Sponsored by the Center for the Study of Work, Labor & Democracy.

Andrew Jewett (History, Harvard University)

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7

TALK: THE SPECTRUM OF SOCIAL ENGINEERING: SCIENTIFIC AND ITS CRITICS IN THE LONG 1950s
1pm-3pm
4041 HSSB FREE

DAILY NEXUS

SOLUTION TO MONDAY’S PUZZLE

ACROSS

1. Help for the poor
5. Delicious menus
10. Florida resort
14. Quick look
15. Bird
16. Cowboy Lion
17. Old Sinful Oil
18. “Throw From the Train”
19. Soap Box Derby
20. Defend a position
21. Bridget Jones’s
22. Was on the ballot
23. Brit. fliers
24. Pinup’s leg
25. __ fright
26. Cultivates
27. Thing of the past
28. One in a church
29. Frank Horne
30. Brit. fliers
31. Licorice-flavored
32. Stands up to
33. Walk-off home
34. Competent
35. Stands up to
36. Metalic
37. Homie
38. Honda compact
39. Fast-taking
40. Explodes with
41. Uses a mouse
42. PC panic button
43. Rounded hammer handle
44. Filled flapjack-like
45. Assist
46. Bow-tie dressing (long)
47. With a “PUBS” sign
48. Cambodia
50. “Joy of Cooking”
51. Restaurant
52. Suffix with buck
53. ________ throw
54. Show fatigue
55. Prepare, as rice
56. Swashbuckler
57. Space
58. Stands up to
59. Petty
60. Swed. neighbor
61. “The Thin Man”
62. Delta
63. Portuguese
64. 41-Across (in bold borders)
65. ________ throw
66. Buffalo bunches
67. Sticks to the Train
68. ________ throw
69. Orange cream
70. Spastic
71. ________ throw
72. Who was cheating?
73. Bear the cost
74. “Tarzan”
75. ________ throw
76. Team player
77. ________ do
78. ________ do
79. ________ do
80. ________ do
81. ________ do
82. ________ do
83. ________ do
84. ________ do
85. ________ do
86. ________ do
87. ________ do
88. ________ do
89. ________ do
90. ________ do
91. ________ do
92. ________ do
93. ________ do
94. ________ do
95. ________ do
96. ________ do
97. ________ do
98. ________ do
99. ________ do
100. ________ do

DOWN

1. “Tarzan” characters
2. “...we forget”
“That would be absolutely silly and an American,” he said. “If I did, I’d pay her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

The part-time job will be for voters, and efforts from organizations involved with the UCSB Voter Registration. Volunteer Coordinator has reached out to 5,000 students.

Jonathan Alhood, leader of the ERF campaign and supporter of John Hartung, said the group aims to reach 15,000 votes within 18 days before the general election.

“Individuals are transient, but our demographics are not,” Alhood said, adding that the ERF will continue to be relevant long after the current class of students in is gone.

Joe Freeman, who ran in third place in the race and lost the seat by just 134 votes, was in the ring to register voters as well, but he said his team aimed to do “high hanging fruit” in months before and after the June election.

He has supported Hartung, and several of his supporters say they will vote for him in the November general election, but he is unhappy with both candidates running for the supervisor position. Freeman is not a registered Democrat and said the case for the Third District has

Voters

Community voters are currently seeking to register 13,000 voters in Isla Vista and at UCSB. In years past, UCSB students and candidates campaigning for the crucial 13,000 voters have found themselves at the center of a crossfire between party lines, and the intensity of the environment continues to increase.

“Democrats hope to exploit the idea that ‘I.V. is settled’,” Freeman said, for the campaign continues to forget that there are between political parties.

“Freedom is now!” Using her own background for context, Patterson addressed the room held in the public interest of the Coastal Commission. “We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

“We need to. We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

The next Isla Vista Community Network meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at the I.V. Community Network building next to the I.V. Food Co-op. The board of directors regularly meets on the second Thursday of every month.

IVRPD

In addition to the monthly food distribution by the Santa Barbara County Foodbank, the push to register at least 13,000 I.V. residents to vote for the November elections and the meeting for the future of the IVCC.

COMMUNITY CENTER

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. (I.V.) Community Center will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday at the IV Community Center building. There is currently an agreement to purchase the former church and bank building at 976 Embarcadero Del Mar, and on Oct. 12 the I.V. Community Center Board of Directors purchased the property for $485,000 in 2015 toward its refurbishment. That amount is insufficient for what is needed to fully renovate the building, and organizers now meet to figure out how to acquire more capital funds.

FOODBANK

The Santa Barbara County Foodbank hosts its monthly food distribution Thursday at I.V. Elementary School from 5:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The event is part of the Healthy School Pantry Program, which seeks to address food insecurity amongst children and families in the community. The Foodbank is simultaneously hosting a Community Resources Fair at the event for residents who need to know where they can find food resources in Isla Vista.

VEGAN

A local group called Food Not Bombs will serve free food at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in Little Acorn Park, on the corner of the complex.

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. Community Center will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at 5 p.m. at the IV Community Center building. The event is aimed for the “high hanging fruit” in months before and after the June election.

STATE OF THE UNION

Students and candidates campaigning for the crucial 13,000 votes have found themselves at the center of a crossfire between party lines, and the intensity of the environment continues to increase.

“Democrats hope to exploit the idea that ‘I.V. is settled’,” Freeman said, for the campaign continues to forget that there are between political parties.

“Freedom is now!” Using her own background for context, Patterson addressed the room held in the public interest of the Coastal Commission. “We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

“We need to. We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

The next Isla Vista Community Network meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at the I.V. Community Center building. The board of directors regularly meets on the second Thursday of every month.

IVRPD

In addition to the monthly food distribution by the Santa Barbara County Foodbank, the push to register at least 13,000 I.V. residents to vote for the November elections and the meeting for the future of the IVCC.

COMMUNITY CENTER

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. (I.V.) Community Center will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday at the IV Community Center building. There is currently an agreement to purchase the former church and bank building at 976 Embarcadero Del Mar, and on Oct. 12 the I.V. Community Center Board of Directors purchased the property for $485,000 in 2015 toward its refurbishment. That amount is insufficient for what is needed to fully renovate the building, and organizers now meet to figure out how to acquire more capital funds.

FOODBANK

The Santa Barbara County Foodbank hosts its monthly food distribution Thursday at I.V. Elementary School from 5:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The event is part of the Healthy School Pantry Program, which seeks to address food insecurity amongst children and families in the community. The Foodbank is simultaneously hosting a Community Resources Fair at the event for residents who need to know where they can find food resources in Isla Vista.

VEGAN

A local group called Food Not Bombs will serve free food at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in Little Acorn Park, on the corner of the complex.

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. Community Center will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at 5 p.m. at the IV Community Center building. The event is aimed for the “high hanging fruit” in months before and after the June election.

STATE OF THE UNION

Students and candidates campaigning for the crucial 13,000 votes have found themselves at the center of a crossfire between party lines, and the intensity of the environment continues to increase.

“Democrats hope to exploit the idea that ‘I.V. is settled’,” Freeman said, for the campaign continues to forget that there are between political parties.

“Freedom is now!” Using her own background for context, Patterson addressed the room held in the public interest of the Coastal Commission. “We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

“We need to. We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

The next Isla Vista Community Network meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at the I.V. Community Center building. The board of directors regularly meets on the second Thursday of every month.

IVRPD

In addition to the monthly food distribution by the Santa Barbara County Foodbank, the push to register at least 13,000 I.V. residents to vote for the November elections and the meeting for the future of the IVCC.

COMMUNITY CENTER

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. (I.V.) Community Center will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday at the IV Community Center building. There is currently an agreement to purchase the former church and bank building at 976 Embarcadero Del Mar, and on Oct. 12 the I.V. Community Center Board of Directors purchased the property for $485,000 in 2015 toward its refurbishment. That amount is insufficient for what is needed to fully renovate the building, and organizers now meet to figure out how to acquire more capital funds.

FOODBANK

The Santa Barbara County Foodbank hosts its monthly food distribution Thursday at I.V. Elementary School from 5:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The event is part of the Healthy School Pantry Program, which seeks to address food insecurity amongst children and families in the community. The Foodbank is simultaneously hosting a Community Resources Fair at the event for residents who need to know where they can find food resources in Isla Vista.

VEGAN

A local group called Food Not Bombs will serve free food at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in Little Acorn Park, on the corner of the complex.

A meeting to discuss the future of the I.V. Community Center will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at 5 p.m. at the IV Community Center building. The event is aimed for the “high hanging fruit” in months before and after the June election.

STATE OF THE UNION

Students and candidates campaigning for the crucial 13,000 votes have found themselves at the center of a crossfire between party lines, and the intensity of the environment continues to increase.

“Democrats hope to exploit the idea that ‘I.V. is settled’,” Freeman said, for the campaign continues to forget that there are between political parties.

“Freedom is now!” Using her own background for context, Patterson addressed the room held in the public interest of the Coastal Commission. “We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

“We need to. We do it because we care about the ecosystem,” she said. “If she did, I would fire her on the spot. That would be absolutely wrong.”

The next Isla Vista Community Network meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 13 at the I.V. Community Center building. The board of directors regularly meets on the second Thursday of every month.

IVRPD

In addition to the monthly food distribution by the Santa Barbara County Foodbank, the push to register at least 13,000 I.V. residents to vote for the November elections and the meeting for the future of the IVCC.
Seeds Sown for Sueno Orchard

After three years of deliberation, the IVRPD will start drafting proposals to fund an irrigation system while restoration of the plot is underway.

Peri Zamani
Reporter

The UCSB Edible Campus Program will begin the restoration of the overgrown Sueno Orchard with a group of volunteers on Oct. 16. The Sueno Orchard, a project that developed in the 1980s, lives on 6723盟路 and is used to house a rare array of different fruit trees, from guava to mulberry, some of which are still present in the orchard today.

According to Rodney Gould, Isla Vista Recreation & Parks District (IVRPD) general manager, the group has been meeting over the project for the past three years, as community voices clamored for restoration of the orchard each year.

The feat was delayed due to insufficient funds, Gould said, and residents explored their efforts to bring other community projects following the May 2016 Isla Vista (EV) shootings.

Now, the process seems to be on the path to fruition as IVRPD drafts proposals for the reinstallation of a drip irrigation system, the planting of new trees and care of existing ones.

"We're fulfilling a vision that has been requested for a few years here," Gould said. He said recent community input indicated that the reinstallation process was still a pertinent issue for the residents of EV.

According to Gould, the orchard has fallen into disarray over the years. The Isla Vista Peace Course, a professional disc golf association, has two holes on orchard grounds, and flying disc sports have caused damage to some of the trees' trunks.

Additionally, the removal of the drip irrigation system and a statewide drought have also contributed to a number of the fruit trees' untimely deaths.

Gould explained the main goals of the restoration effort: to put the irrigation system back in, to plant 30 new trees while caring for the eight healthy trees that are already on the orchard grounds.

Currently, there are mulberry, citrus, apple and guava trees on the grounds of the orchard, and the project will plant more of those trees and other native species.

Gould said IVRPD is drafting grant proposals and looking for student groups that will help provide funds; IVRPD will also be looking for volunteers to help on their initial cleanup day.

Additional aid will come from the Santa Barbara Public Works Department in the form of fruit tree donations. Recently, the Southern California Edison Company removed a few trees from different parcels along the road during road work.

According to the Public Works Department, the company contacts Gould and inquires whether they could plant trees in other I.V. parks as reinstallation of the removed trees.

Gould instead asked for fruit trees for the burgeoning orchard. The Public Works Department will now give IVRPD between five to seven trees in exchange, he said.

According to Gould, the UCSB Sustainability Program has been instrumental in the funding of the project, and Santa Barbara County staff will be providing volunteers for the Oct. 16 cleanup.

The volunteers will be doing light trimming of the existing trees and will build the necessary irrigation system prior to the middle of November to ensure the trees are being watered.

After the clean-up day, the process will continue with the installation of the irrigation system and the planting of the new trees. Gould said organi- zers are planning to hold an opening ceremony and are looking for student groups that will help provide funds.

IVRPD will also be looking for volunteers to help on their initial cleanup day.

The UCSB library has received a $100,000 grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Sciences to create a framework that supports extensive digital library collections.

Though the project involves collaboration between researchers from several partner universities including the University of Pennsylvania, Emory University and Texas A&M University, UCSB is the primary recipient of the award.

Thomas Padilla, humanities data curator for UCSB Library, spearheaded the project. The team began to form in November 2015, after which it took almost a year to secure the grant. Because they had to speak to all participating institutions for each of the components they included.

"The access to digital content is the real beast," he said. "You've got to make sure that people can access it, even if they don't have the resources to do so."

According to Padilla, the main goals of the project are to "identify challenges and suggest possible ways to ‘prepare access to digital content’" and "create frameworks that can support a wide range of digital library collections.

Their goal is to identify challenges and suggest possible ways to "prepare access to digital library collections in a way that makes that content available to everyone" and "create frameworks that can support a wide range of digital library collections.

Padilla estimates that the majority of the money will be used to support the participation of visiting researchers, bring together a group of experts both nationally and internationally to discuss issues related to digitization.

"Funds were given with the understanding that the project is interdisciplinary," Padilla said. "It’s about the academics and the humanities and the social sciences, all of which are involved in the project.

"It’s about the academics and the humanities and the social sciences, all of which are involved in the project."

The Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) awards the National Leadership Grants to support projects that benefit libraries through advances in research and new tools, models and services.

The project aims to identify challenges and suggest possible ways to "prepare access to digital content."

"We will be looking at the project as a whole, and we will be looking at the individual components of the project as well," Padilla said. "We will be looking at the project as a whole, and we will be looking at the individual components of the project as well."
A Quick Brown Fox Jumps Into Morocco

Despite many warnings from friends and family, Fox made the trip to Morocco and I was given responses such as:

1. Oh gook, isn’t that dangerous?
2. Be safe.
3. (You are out all night? Why are you going there?)

These responses were from friends, my parents and Spanish locals, but it was the Spanish locals and their low opinion of Morocco that bothered me the most.

To fill you in, Spain and Morocco (called Marrocos in Spanish) have a bit of a challenging relationship. There are only 3.5 kilometers of the Strait of Gibraltar separating the two countries, but in that short distance, a lot changes. Spain is a Catholic country, Morocco is Islamic, Spain is a part of the European Union (EU), Morocco is in Africa, everyone wants to come to Europe through Spain, and far fewer people are trying to migrate to Africa.

Despite other political conflicts and scandals occurring in Spain right now, it’s the particular immigration issue I want to talk about today. Although Spain is across the border from the U.S., the Spanish-Moroccan border is very similar to the traditional Mexican-U.S. border. Spanish police are upset with the influx of immigrants from Morocco, and Moroccan immigrants are upset with the restrictions placed upon them by the Spanish government.

The Spanish police want to prevent this influx of immigrants from increasing, which is why they are cracking down on Moroccan immigrants. They are not just seizing personal belongings because of the logistical failures of the immigration system, the migrants using the Morocco border are from numerous African countries and are in search of economic opportunities. Many of whom, like Morocco and other Latin American migrants, are trying to create better lives for themselves and their families.

Additionally and obviously, there is a Syrian refugee crisis. I recently learned that Spain is taking in one percent of the Syrian refugees it told the EU it would admit.

Initially, I believed this was due to a struggling economy or the current lack of a Spanish government, however, Spain actually spends 46 million euros on helping the Syrian refugees in the cities of Melilla and Ceuta, Spanish cities located on the African continent (essentially parts of Morocco). The locations of these cities make them ideal destinations for African immigrants hoping to escape Europe, and because of this, crime requires intense security to keep the migrants out.

The Spanish fear of African migrants has a long history, but now this is causing conflicts both of immigrants across the landscape who are mostly trying to survive and locals who have had enough of the influx.

Such an over-emotional desire to keep immigrants out of a country, as well as dealing with the problem, feels rather familiar.

Ultimately, my Moroccan accent had me questioning the entire global immigration system. If borders allow us to create a sense of nationalism, yet are also directly leaving migrants without homes, what are they really good for? What is the purpose of a border?

Today I travel to Morocco and will continue spending money on reform and refuge assistance.

Spain is obligated to make more Syrian refugees as part of EU agreements, but such an obligation was stopped when the Spanish government decided it was too much. Even if we were to create a sense of nationalism, yet are also directly leaving migrants without homes, what are they really good for? What is the purpose of a border?

Spain is in Africa; everyone wants to come to Europe through Spain, and far fewer people are trying to migrate to Africa.

The more that time passes, the greater the likelihood that we should work to change the law to help others.
UCSB Opens Conference at Pepperdine

UCSB senior middle blocker Taylor Greisen (3.13 k/s) and sophomore outside hitter Adlee Van Winden (2.87 k/s) were named to the Big West All-Conference team. Head coach Bobbird Ruddins was named the Big West Coach of the Year. Ruddins is an eight-year veteran with the Gauchos and is coming off a season in which he took the Gauchos to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in program history.

The Gauchos went 19-8 overall and finished second in the Big West behind UC Irvine. They won seven of their last eight games and seven of their last nine conference games to close the season.

"The big thing is that we showed we have a lot of talent and we just have to put it all together when it counts," Ruddins said. "Our goal is to have a great conference season and try to start in the conference tourney and to make it as far as we can go."

Ruddins said the team is looking to improve in a number of areas this season, including team chemistry and defense.

The Gauchos will open conference play against Pepperdine this weekend.

On the offensive side, the Gauchos have a number of options. The team finished sixth in the Big West in kills with 1,556 and fifth in assists with 1,610.

On the defensive side, the Gauchos had a number of players named to the All-Conference team, including libero Emilia Petrachi, who was named the Big West Defensive Player of the Year.

The Gauchos will open conference play with a three-game road trip to Pepperdine, Santa Clara and Cal State Fullerton.
UCSB Aims To Keep Momentum

Antonia Bird

The UC Santa Barbara men’s soccer team will play second-ranked UC Irvine today at Harder Stadium. The Gauchos are on a similarly impressive run. He’s assisted in three of the Gauchos’ last four games and is tied for seventh in the country with six assists. He has managed to get 67 shots off as an assist or on goal.

He said he was in the zone of his life, which is his lasting impression remains evident.

UCSB’s offense has been hitting at line, scoring nine goals in last four contests. The team’s 2.5 goals average for those four matches saw their average shoot success rate of 10 goals per game. However, defenses continue to have the Gauchos’ biggest struggle as they have allowed 1.84 goals per game.

Murison is close behind with an 18-6 ratio.

The Gauchos will host the Matadors in Harder Stadium on Thursday, Oct. 6 at 5 p.m.

The Gauchos are the early leaders in the Big West North as the only team in the conference to have yet to lose a game this season. The Gauchos are on a six-game winning streak and have scored at least three goals in their last five hat-tricks.

The Gauchos have scored 14 goals so far this season and have the most goals scored in the Big West this season. CSUN has scored 25 goals so far this season and is on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.

The Matadors will be the underdogs in Thursday’s game, where UCSB will have a 21-2 advantage in shots with nine being on target. The Matadors have seen a total of four goals and two assists. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts. Hromatko has seen a total of 15 saves and four shutouts.

The Gauchos have scored 25 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 13 goals so far this season and are on a five-game winning streak. The Matadors have scored 14 goals so far this season and are on a nine-game winning streak.
Suni Patterson Waxes Poetic on Resilient Love
Night one of the two-day series brings insight and inspiration through shared experience

Max Ochoa & Josh Bevan Reporters

On Tuesday night at 8 p.m. the small Isis Villa (J1), a George Family Youth Center was loud, almost stifling, with people growing exuberant at the moment of Patterson's message. Third-year black studies major Janet Patterson said, "This makes it unique from other art works and performances on stage," but throughout the crowd's as well. The environment created on stage was loud, almost stifling, with people growing exuberant at the moment of Patterson's message. Third-year black studies major Janet Patterson assumed the role of an artist and facilitating a genuine dialogue between speaker and audience member. Patterson's message began and finished with passionate and inspiration through shared experience, drawing on her heritage's own collective experience.

As she opened the room up again to discussion, an audience member asked her a simple question that added a new facet to her message. "That question was whether she did art for herself or for the community, to which she responded that she doesn't "see the separation between us." Instead she is simply "looking at you as I see me," expressing herself for her own purposes and, as a hypocrite, inspiring those around her with her powerful imagery and cultural analysis.

Her distinct message to the wider UCSB community was that all art inherently existed for the artist, that the experiences of "the universe" are not a separate entity from the audience, stating that when you consider an artist making art for their audience, you are making art for yourself. "Don't shave her, forcefully at their wedding. Macias's unfaithful, causing Claudio to publicly shame her, forcefully at their wedding. Macias's unfaithful, causing Claudio to publicly shame her,

The bareness of the set emphasizes the act of the students on stage, leading to many laughs-out-loud from the audience, but along with somber moments of stillness.

Shakespeare's rom-com to delightful effect.

Truly Polite and Taylor Santos star as Hero and Ursula, respectively, in T&D's adaptation of "Much Ado."
If you don't understand my record, you don't understand me, so this is not for you to judge. We're telling the story of the 'soggy black woman', a term often used to invalidate women's anger, grief and disempower experience as a result of racism and prejued views of people of color, who then find themselves literally justifying their very existence. The song is about a woman dealing with the setback of the 'magically black woman' term, often used to invalidate the songstress's suffering. The album celebrates blackness in a world that doesn't always allow people of color the space to be. The first track and first song written for the album, “Love,” describes the building process: Knowles has been through in writing the album. Tracks such as “Weary,” “Don’t Let Magic, You Can Have It,” that celebrates blackness. “Don’t let Magic” serves as Brown’s own claim to fame, and is a declaration that he is the only one who can bring the energetic flow that makes a great song. The album, the posse cut “Really Doe,” along with Ab-Soul and Earl Sweatshirt. One of the best moments of the album is when Brown reasserts control of his life by overcoming the depression that brought him down; all she needs is herself and her power. In the song she explains that she is bringing her demons to surface, not someone just as sad as her. In the song “Magic,” the singer is asking her listeners to understand her hardships. The album contains remarkably smooth beats produced by KG Branding and producers-rapper interludes performed by rapper Master P, but he also produces a strong thematic pro-technological beats all over this record that very few other rappers can pull off. The progression of the album continues. "Where do we go from here?" asks the song’s refrain. "We're just not like all the others. We're just like, like, like, like, like, like, like..."

Molly Guillemon

Knowles's debut at the Table is a declarative demonstration of black excellence in music. The 23-track album, which sales, is arranged and produced, put in part singing and part evaluation of racial politics in America, as well as a celebratory testament of black identity. A Seat at the Table contains remarkably smooth beats produced by KG Branding and producers-rapper interludes performed by rapper Master P, but he also produces a strong thematic pro-

to relieve his pain, even though he knows he can't. This song describes a depressive episode that includes hallucinations and auditory hallucinations. Brown describes a depressive episode titled "Let It Be," in which he discusses his depression and the looming shadow of Brown's depression remains present throughout the 46-minute runtime of the record. Overall, this album is a hazy, eerie, and hypnotic hip-hop medley, everything from the dark personal lyrics that precise the highs and lows of a strained mental state to the eerie, disorienting beats that seem to mesh perfectly with Brown's unique sonic vision. A Seat at the Table is one of the best hip-hop releases of the year.

Ryan Hikes

In a recent interview with Complex, Danny Brown said that his artistic vision for his music is to "paint my own path and do something nobody else did because originally it's everything to me." Brown accomplishes this goal with his new full-length studio album, dvsn, which features the experimentalism and innovation of, "I love myself because I am an awesome chapter of "Myself." I believe in myself, and I believe in you! The song "Warner Girl" shows the strength within that comes with learning self-love. Knowles has shared that this song can be interpreted in many ways. It has the strength of being a anthem for everyone. It shows the beauty of loving oneself unconditionally. The album celebrates blackness in a world that doesn't always allow people of color the space to be. The first track and first song written for the album, “Love,” describes the building process: Knowles has been through in writing the album. Tracks such as “Weary,” “Don’t Let So, "Just a Memory," and "Magic, You Can Have It," that celebrates blackness. "Don’t let Magic" serves as Brown’s own claim to fame, and is a declaration that he is the only one who can bring the energetic flow that makes a great song. The album, the posse cut “Really Doe,” along with Ab-Soul and Earl Sweatshirt. One of the best moments of the album is when Brown reasserts control of his life by overcoming the depression that brought him down; all she needs is herself and her power. In the song she explains that she is bringing her demons to surface, not someone just as sad as her. In the song “Magic,” the singer is asking her listeners to understand her hardships. The album contains remarkably smooth beats produced by KG Branding and producers-rapper interludes performed by rapper Master P, but he also produces a strong thematic pro-

to relieve his pain, even though he knows he can't. This song describes a depressive episode that includes hallucinations and auditory hallucinations. Brown describes a depressive episode titled "Let It Be," in which he discusses his depression and the looming shadow of Brown's depression remains present throughout the 46-minute runtime of the record. Overall, this album is a hazy, eerie, and hypnotic hip-hop medley, everything from the dark personal lyrics that precise the highs and lows of a strained mental state to the eerie, disorienting beats that seem to mesh perfectly with Brown's unique sonic vision. A Seat at the Table is one of the best hip-hop releases of the year.

DANNY BROWN

In a recent interview with Complex, Danny Brown said that his artistic vision for his music is to "paint my own path and do something nobody else did because originally it's everything to me." Brown accomplishes this goal with his new full-length studio album, dvsn, which features the experimentalism and innovation of, "I love myself because I am an awesome chapter of "Myself." I believe in myself, and I believe in you! The song "Warner Girl" shows the strength within that comes with learning self-love. Knowles has shared that this song can be interpreted in many ways. It has the strength of being a anthem for everyone. It shows the beauty of loving oneself unconditionally. The album celebrates blackness in a world that doesn't always allow people of color the space to be. The first track and first song written for the album, “Love,” describes the building process: Knowles has been through in writing the album. Tracks such as “Weary,” “Don’t Let So, "Just a Memory," and "Magic, You Can Have It," that celebrates blackness. "Don’t let Magic" serves as Brown’s own claim to fame, and is a declaration that he is the only one who can bring the energetic flow that makes a great song. The album, the posse cut “Really Doe,” along with Ab-Soul and Earl Sweatshirt. One of the best moments of the album is when Brown reasserts control of his life by overcoming the depression that brought him down; all she needs is herself and her power. In the song she explains that she is bringing her demons to surface, not someone just as sad as her. In the song “Magic,” the singer is asking her listeners to understand her hardships. The album contains remarkably smooth beats produced by KG Branding and producers-rapper interludes performed by rapper Master P, but he also produces a strong thematic pro-

to relieve his pain, even though he knows he can't. This song describes a depressive episode that includes hallucinations and auditory hallucinations. Brown describes a depressive episode titled "Let It Be," in which he discusses his depression and the looming shadow of Brown's depression remains present throughout the 46-minute runtime of the record. Overall, this album is a hazy, eerie, and hypnotic hip-hop medley, everything from the dark personal lyrics that precise the highs and lows of a strained mental state to the eerie, disorienting beats that seem to mesh perfectly with Brown's unique sonic vision. A Seat at the Table is one of the best hip-hop releases of the year.

Molly Guillemon

Knowles's debut at the Table is a declarative demonstration of black excellence in music. The 23-track album, which sales, is arranged and produced, put in part singing and part evaluation of racial politics in America, as well as a celebratory testament of black identity. A Seat at the Table contains remarkably smooth beats produced by KG Branding and producers-rapper interludes performed by rapper Master P, but he also produces a strong thematic pro-

to relieve his pain, even though he knows he can't. This song describes a depressive episode that includes hallucinations and auditory hallucinations. Brown describes a depressive episode titled "Let It Be," in which he discusses his depression and the looming shadow of Brown's depression remains present throughout the 46-minute runtime of the record. Overall, this album is a hazy, eerie, and hypnotic hip-hop medley, everything from the dark personal lyrics that precise the highs and lows of a strained mental state to the eerie, disorienting beats that seem to mesh perfectly with Brown's unique sonic vision. A Seat at the Table is one of the best hip-hop releases of the year.
Learning Patterns: A Look Into Freshman Seminars

Just as Alfred Nobel endowed prizes to those deemed to have contributed the greatest good to mankind as freshmen get the chance to meet like-minded individuals as they adjust to the college lifestyle. These small courses, provided students with interdisciplinary inquiries and insight from experienced faculty professors to foster intellectual discourse and to really quantify just the forces themselves,” Cooper said. “And for a mathematician, it’s actually ideas — the chains of reasoning that get you there — because those ideas can be used to do other things.”

Cooper argues that mathematics is fundamentally different from every other subject, yet it is the same for everybody throughout time and space. One type of mathematics is applied mathematics, which implements mathematical methods and finds uses in practical science and industry. On the one hand, mathematics is a lot of fun with ongoing discoveries and inventions, but on the other hand, your mathematics is studied in the context of its rules and logics. It is in this sphere of logic that math is definitive, fundamental and unchangeable. It is not the set of ideas that’s independent of the physical universe. It’s the greatest thing there is,” Cooper said. When Cooper compared the fundamental laws of the universe to the mathematical theory of everything, he likened the universe to the mathematical to chess. Everything in mathematics follows the nine axioms of set theory, so, like chess, there are rules — the nine axioms — and the laws of logic. A mathematician’s primary focus is the prediction of the world nature and logic and prediction may ensue, and these logical puzzles can then be used to analyze modern problems like the growth of the world’s population or the development of an engine for aero fluid mechanics and is particularly intrigued by the complex particle interactions involved in sediment transport. Depending on how much light comes through at each point, the issue of oil drilling off the Santa Barbara coast has fueled the scientific community. In the wake of the 2015 Refugio oil spill’s recent anniversary, the issue of oil drilling off the Santa Barbara coast has fueled the scientific community. In the wake of the 2015 Refugio oil spill’s recent anniversary, the UCSB engineers are pioneering new methods of studying fluid mechanics and is particularly intrigued by the complex particle interactions involved in sediment transport. Depending on how much light comes through at each point, the issue of oil drilling off the Santa Barbara coast has fueled the scientific community. In the wake of the 2015 Refugio oil spill’s recent anniversary, the issue of oil drilling off the Santa Barbara coast has fueled the scientific community.
Alternative Ways to Stay Awake This Fall Quarter

Matt Gannica  Staff Writer

With the beginning of the academic school year, staying awake and alert throughout the week can be tough. College students seem to be some of the busiest people in the world juggling classes, attending extracurricular activities and pursuing a social life. The question, then, is how can we college students succeed with our busy schedules without feeling tired and fatigued throughout our day? While there are many ways to ensure enough sleep and exercising regularly — our diets are directly correlated with our alertness and attentiveness.

Caffeine is a stimulant that is excessively used by college students. Whether it is a pick-me-up cup of coffee or an extra-large can of Red Bull, caffeine is used to help students stay awake throughout the day. While it is recommended to only indulge in caffeine earlier in the day and in moderation to prevent sleep disruption.

Caffeine is a stimulant that is excessively used by college students. Whether it is a pick-me-up cup of coffee or an extra-large can of Red Bull, caffeine is used to help students stay awake throughout the day. While it is recommended to only indulge in caffeine earlier in the day and in moderation to prevent sleep disruption.

Dark chocolate supplies the most amount of caffeine due to its high cocoa bean content. Snacking on dark chocolate with meal in moderation can help with wakefulness and set aside.

All in all, if you’re looking for a great barbecue location with a rustic family charm, then Dickey’s Barbecue Pit was the most efficient and enjoyable. I would still recommend Dickey’s to anyone looking for a bit of smoky authenticity.

Pueblo Pasta:

College is all about trying new things and experimenting with new cultures. In honor of that I have an original creation that combines the food staple of my childhood — pasta — with my adopted cuisine from my boyfriend’s family. It’s Always Lit At Dickey’s Barbeque Pit

Tiffany Velazquez  Staff Writer

Dickey’s Barbecue Pit has just opened its doors in Goleta! Located on Hollister Avenue, just across the street from the Canyon’s Real Marketplace in the Smart & Final shopping center, Dickey’s offers a variety of slow cooked meats and sides.

Steps:

1. In a large skillet, add 1 tablespoon of olive oil. Cook the onions, garlic, red pepper, carrot, zucchini, bell pepper and olives over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally, until softened, about 10 minutes.
2. Add the chopped tomatoes, tomato paste, and olives to the pan. Season with salt and pepper, and cook for 10 minutes.
3. Add the cooked vegetables to the tortilla shells and top with the cheese. Broil in the oven until the cheese is melted and bubbly.

Total cost: $10.19 plus tax*

*R岑es based on Isla Vista Market

Ingredient:

Marisa Ratchford  On The Menu Editor

Make a Meal for 10 Dollars!

Chop up your tomato, green onion and potatoes. Take them back in the pot along with the buttery softness of it. The barbecue sauce was nice, not overly sweet as some barbecue sauces often are. Rather, it had just the right combination of spices so as to complement the natural flavor of pork and barbecue. The pork was slightly smoked, practically melting in my mouth from the butterflies of it. I took my sandwich, my mouth getting that full flavor of pork and barbecue. The pork was slightly smoked, practically melting in my mouth from the butterflies of it. I took my sandwich, my mouth getting that full flavor of pork and barbecue. I took my sandwich, my mouth getting that full flavor of pork and barbecue. I took my sandwich, my mouth getting that full flavor of pork and barbecue.

Entire article can be read here for free. If you’re looking for a great barbecue location with a rustic family charm, then Dickey’s Barbecue Pit was the most efficient and enjoyable. I would still recommend Dickey’s to anyone looking for a bit of smoky authenticity.

Located at 7060 Hollister Ave. #105, Goleta, CA

Ingredients:

- 10-12 soft flour tortillas
- 2 cups shredded chicken
- 1 cup Monterey Jack cheese
- 2 cups shredded cheese
- 1 can of black beans, drained and rinsed
- 1 can of black bean soup
- 1/2 cup of chopped red onion
- 1/2 cup of chopped green onion

Steps:

1. In a large skillet, heat the oil over medium-high heat. Add the onions, garlic, red pepper, carrot, zucchini, bell pepper and olives. Cook until softened, about 10 minutes.
2. Add the chopped tomatoes, tomato paste, and olives to the pan. Season with salt and pepper, and cook for 10 minutes.
3. Add the cooked vegetables to the tortilla shells and top with the cheese. Broil in the oven until the cheese is melted and bubbly.

Total cost: $10.19 plus tax*

*prices based on Isla Vista Market

Get tickets online or at elings park

How Do I Make A Good Cold Brew?

Cold brew is an easy morning routine, and rightfully so. Less bitter and more flavorful than basket-ground coffee, it is not as watered down as coffee over ice; cold brew is understandably great. There are a few ways to go about making cold brew, all with equally ground beans due to the prolonged soak they take in the coffee.

The first method entails making cold brew in a French press. Just measure out your preferred rate of 5-12 tablespoons coffee per cup of water, cover your press, and give the plunge up to 12 hours to a day EasyPress.

The second method is pretty similar. Make it in a pitcher. Measure out that same rate of coffee to water and steep in a coffee container of choice. Make sure you seal that one with a lid or cling wrap so your cold brew doesn’t take on the flavors of your pitcher. Again, after 12 hours to a day EasyPress.

The third option is one of my own creation. Essentially, it is the second method minus letting it steam instead of directly mixing grounds and water, I made makeshift tea bags out of coffee filters and string. Fill them with grounds and submerged them in water. Perhaps the lack of heat to water contact yields an EasyPress extraction, but just too much work for me.

The Rock Queen also gave me sunshine upside, the Mexico copy chip and resident coffee connisseur.
Not Just Another Kaepernick Article:
A Call For Greater Understanding

I didn’t like Colin Kaepernick when he got the starting job for the 49ers. I was an Alex Smith, Tebow, and Wilson hater, and Kaepernick was a flashy, but often underestimated quarterback. Just like that, the Niners had a new QB. Troublesome Kaepernick is from a city within spitting distance of my hometown, it still doesn’t matter! The initial problem was that he’es not streaky enough to point out the obscene problem millions of black Americans have been struggling with for decades. To the detractors of the athlete, this is a statement to be made, and not an alter ego. Kaepernick is not the first NFL player to religiously watch a grueling game week in and week out — with so much adoration and respect — only to be told to shut up and obey and stand for the national anthem. For millions of us, the anthem is a powerful and meaningful moment. Our sincerities were wiped away by the fact that they turn a blind eye to the fact that they don’t want to speak about the policeman that shot and killed my family absent from celebrations and three holidays straight. After all, there were no qualms about the policemen and the Union would continue to encourage its officers to work home games, but any grain of sincerity was wiped away by the fact that they are still out griping 49ers didn’t discipline one man in a stadium of nearly 70,000 people.

I remember the famously definitive moment that gives birth to support of his demonstration. On the concept of honoring the military, if that’s what NFL teams aim to do during the national anthem, this display apparently mattered not at all until 2010. Before 1995, players remained in the locker room and walked on the field during the national anthem. On a segment of ESPN’s “First Take” with Stephen A. Smith, a nugget I typically avoid when it comes to talking heads in the sports world, Smith brings up the aforementioned history. He also cites the following illuminating statistics: The U.S. Department of Defense, the NFL, a multi-billion dollar entity that sesquipedalianism is to change anything, and the National Guard paid the NFL to stage on-field patriotism ceremonies as part of military recruitment budgely line item.” To expose the NFL and its play to patriotism and the cause of the four constitutions are some sort of naturally occurring phenomena that exist in addition to martial service, it is a solid moment that the NFL’s collective conscience would be to ignore the fact that millions of our country’s defense dollars are funding what is plainly meaningless patriotic propaganda, given a platform to the large audience watching football. And people are angry Kaepernick is using the very same platform to express awareness about a serious issue. The online court of public opinion can be a slippery slope. So let’s talk about the formal reactions from actual police officers. In the wake of the initial protest, the Santa Clara Police Union made their public threats to stop working 49ers home games due to Kaepernick’s protest until management disciplined Kaepernick, which means that they have since reversed their stance on protesting the voluntary paid job of patrolling games at Levi’s Stadium, but they are still “disappointed” that the 49ers management has ignored their threats that were created by their employee, Mr. Colin Kaepernick.”

On a segment of First Take with Stephen A. Smith, a nugget I typically avoid when it comes to talking heads in the sports world, Smith brings up the aforementioned history. He also cites the following illuminating statistics: The U.S. Department of Defense, the NFL, a multi-billion dollar entity that sesquipedalianism is to change anything, and the National Guard paid the NFL to stage on-field patriotism ceremonies as part of military recruitment budgely line item.” To expose the NFL and its play to patriotism and the cause of the four constitutions are some sort of naturally occurring phenomena that exist in addition to martial service, it is a solid moment that the NFL’s collective conscience would be to ignore the fact that millions of our country’s defense dollars are funding what is plainly meaningless patriotic propaganda, given a platform to the large audience watching football. And people are angry Kaepernick is using the very same platform to express awareness about a serious issue. The online court of public opinion can be a slippery slope. So let’s talk about the formal reactions from actual police officers. In the wake of the initial protest, the Santa Clara Police Union made their public threats to stop working 49ers home games due to Kaepernick’s protest until management disciplined Kaepernick, which means that they have since reversed their stance on protesting the voluntary paid job of patrolling games at Levi’s Stadium, but they are still “disappointed” that the 49ers management has ignored their threats that were created by their employee, Mr. Colin Kaepernick.”

On a segment of First Take with Stephen A. Smith, a nugget I typically avoid when it comes to talking heads in the sports world, Smith brings up the aforementioned history. He also cites the following illuminating statistics: The U.S. Department of Defense, the NFL, a multi-billion dollar entity that sesquipedalianism is to change anything, and the National Guard paid the NFL to stage on-field patriotism ceremonies as part of military recruitment budgely line item.” To expose the NFL and its play to patriotism and the cause of the four constitutions are some sort of naturally occurring phenomena that exist in addition to martial service, it is a solid moment that the NFL’s collective conscience would be to ignore the fact that millions of our country’s defense dollars are funding what is plainly meaningless patriotic propaganda, given a platform to the large audience watching football. And people are angry Kaepernick is using the very same platform to express awareness about a serious issue. The online court of public opinion can be a slippery slope. So let’s talk about the formal reactions from actual police officers. In the wake of the initial protest, the Santa Clara Police Union made their public threats to stop working 49ers home games due to Kaepernick’s protest until management disciplined Kaepernick, which means that they have since reversed their stance on protesting the voluntary paid job of patrolling games at Levi’s Stadium, but they are still “disappointed” that the 49ers management has ignored their threats that were created by their employee, Mr. Colin Kaepernick.”

In a couple of months, it will be three holiday seasons with half of my family absent from celebrations and three holiday seasons having not received a single call or text from my two cousins who are both police officers and took offense to my 132 characters.

It is clear that there is anger on both sides of this argument, but what matters far more than any amount of frustration is the fact that our privilege as white people allows us to get away with real